Turkey has very limited natural gas resources, as a result of which the internal consumption requirement is almost exclusively met with imported gas, be it in the form of pipeline gas or LNG.

Oil & Gas Regulation 2018 | Laws and Regulations | Turkey

Turkey's demand is mostly met from imported oil and natural gas as it lacks considerable oil and natural gas resources. The market shares of local private companies may increase in the near future in both sectors, as the Turkish Government aims to gradually liberalise the oil and gas markets and decrease the dominance of state-owned public entities.

The Oil & Gas Year (TOGY)

In gas circles Turkey, over the past 10 years or so, has been prominent in the various schemes to open a "fourth corridor" of gas supply to the core European national gas markets. The grandeur of earlier visions has morphed into a pragmatic and initially more modest scheme to supply 10 Bcm/yr of gas beyond Turkey. With the Euro-centric political excitement around "Nabucco" on the wane ...
